

FTT Receives Governor's Business Diversification Award

9/25/2006 – Florida Turbine Technologies, Inc. of Palm Beach County was honored by Governor Jeb Bush at the Governor's Business Diversification Awards banquet held at the Governor's Mansion in Tallahassee. The award was developed by Enterprise Florida, Inc. to recognize companies who are creating high-value jobs and investing their resources to build better communities throughout the state.

Florida Turbine Technologies, Inc. (FTT) which recently was awarded a $7.5 million contract to develop advanced high efficiency turbine engines for the US Army, received the Business Expansion Award in the Mega Market category (county population greater than 750,000). FTT was chosen “based on its demonstrated ingenuity, civic leadership, and significant contribution to strengthening and diversifying Florida’s economy.”

Florida Turbine Technologies, Inc was formed in 1998, operates three engineering and test facilities in Jupiter, and employs over 160.

“I have committed to the people of Florida to build policies and programs that stimulate the growth of a stronger, more diversified economy that offers a higher quality of life,” said Governor Bush. “Florida’s economy continues to lead the nation thanks to the commitment and success of excellent companies such as our award-winners and nominees,” he continued. Florida Turbine Technologies, Inc., a high-technology small business, specializes in design, development, manufacture, and test of components and systems for aircraft engines, space propulsion, and industrial gas turbines.

Shirley Brostmeyer, CEO and owner of Florida Turbine Technologies, Inc. receives the Governor's Business Diversification Award from Governor Jeb Bush. Jim Brostmeyer, FTT Operations Chief (right) looks on.